I would like to share my support for the DC Food Trucks. They provide a valuable service in the District and should NOT be restricted. Although rules and regulations are necessary, they should be fair and reasonable. We live in a capitalistic society. For those local businesses who feel threatened by food trucks, keep in mind, if they provide good food and service then they have nothing to worry about. Let the consumers decide where they want to eat and which businesses succeed.

Sincerely,

Diana Boni
