I moved here from the mid west 7 years ago. The very first weekend I walked through the downtown area only to find most restaurants (Cosi, Potbelly) etc were closed. When I asked a few passersby they said most business were only open during the week for the 9-5 set. Food trucks are a simple solution... Then I would have had a good lunch not a lukewarm hotdog. DC is a world class city and we deserve choices.

Thank you!
